

You want to develop a method able to remove homogenous background from photos such as the one depicted below. In order to do so you choose to calculate the local entropy of the image in order to spot homogenous regions.

